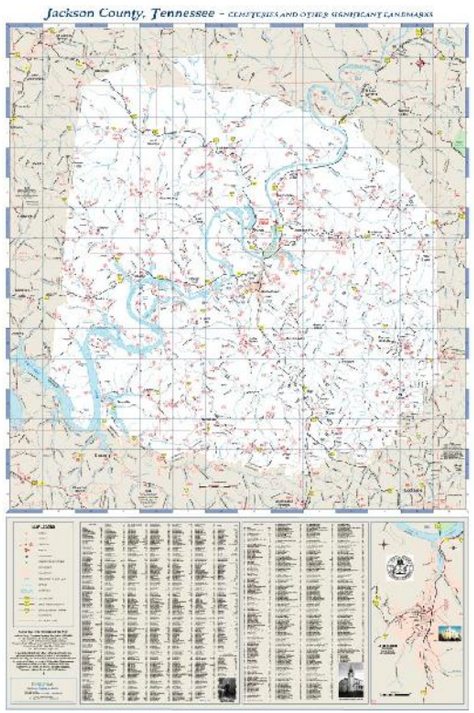
More AboutThe Events

Cemetery Tours

The Granville Cemetery Tours will provide visitors a chance to learn about cemeteries around Granville and search for their ancestors. Tours will be scheduled. Volunteers will be available at each location to provide information about each cemetery and the people buried there at the scheduled time(s).

A tent will be setup in Granville to provide directions and schedules for the tours.



A cemetery map of Jackson County and the *Jackson County Cemetery Inscriptions - 1801-2003*book by Larry Mabry and RedaBilbery will also be available for reference.

Craft Demonstrations

Crafts and demonstrations of the skills required to make them will be available all day Saturday at the Homestead.

Speakers

Speakers on a variety of topics interesting to genealogists, researchers and history buffs will be presented hourly at the Granville United Methodist Church.

A complete schedule of speakers, their biographies and topics will be available on the internet at http://granvilletn.com/genealogy-festival as it available.

Get Involved!

We talk about getting the family together but we don't often have an opportunity like this. Help make this a memorable event for your family.

Share your genealogy.

Many visitors come to the Granville Museum seeking genealogical information about their ancestors who lived in Granville at one time. You can help and get reacquainted by sharing your genealogical research.

Reserve a Surname Booth where you can share your research with others on July 5th and 6th. Use the reservation form on this brochure or use the online form at http://granvilletn.com/genealogy-festival.

Information is also available on the websiteto help you plan your booth.

Plan your family reunion picnic.

Talk to your family and plan your family reunion on July 7th.

Use the attached form or the online form at http://granvilletn.com/genealogy-festival to help us accommodate your group. Let us know if your family will be bringing covered dishes or if you will be using the food vendors. A count will insure that we can accommodate your group.
